5-DRAWER DRESSER

Warm Wisconsin Cherry is the wood of choice for this tall 5-drawer dresser. The boards are kiln dried to control expansion and contraction due to seasonal changes in humidity. The drawers will function smoothly year 'round. Drawer backs and sides are made of Maple, giving a nice contrast to the Cherry and showing off the dovetails.

- Dovetailed drawers
- Cast brass hardware
- 44" T x 36" W x 19" D
- Hand-rubbed oil finish

Why I stain White Oak

White oak is the only species I stain. This is to replicate the look the early Arts & Crafts craftsmen used to get by “fuming” the wood with ammonia. Doing this highlights the medulary rays that are produced by quarter sawing the log. The stain is not only faster, but less offensive to use.

For more info about quarter sawn wood, check out my FAQ page on the website.

This dresser is loaded with drawers—plenty of storage for even the most avid clothing collector. I make the drawers with dovetail construction and carefully fit the openings for a flush presentation and flawless operation. The drawer sides and back are stained to match the front and made of durable Red Oak. This commanding piece also looks stunning in natural Cherry.

DRESSERS & ARMOIRES

ASYMMETRICAL 10-DRAWER DRESSER

Cherry in living color

Don't be surprised if your Cherry furniture looks fairly light when it is first delivered. The wood needs a little time to mellow into its characteristic warm red glow. Each board is unique, with different figure and tones.

Part of my art as a furniture maker is to carefully select what boards will be placed together to get a pleasing result. Big factory production doesn't allow for this attention to detail, so typically "store-bought" Cherry furniture is stained dark to cover up the variances in the wood.

Bird's eye Maple tops this hardwood Cherry 10-drawer dresser. Just the right amount of storage comes from combining a 5-drawer dresser with a narrow lingerie dresser along side. My signature Sandhill arches at the bottom accent the asymmetrical effect.
