CURRENT Octagon Gallery 4/20-6/1/18

CURRENT was a gallery show I did in collaboration with my wife, Wendy. It was displayed at the Octagon Gallery in Westfield, NY.

The river theme of the two-person show was a perfect opportunity for me to reach out and try some new techniques, including working with live edge slabs and stones with epoxy resin to convey the movement of water.

The pieces in this portfolio are all one of a kind. If you are interested in purchasing them, please contact me directly.

Inspired by The Chadakoin River, which flows through the brick-paved streets of Jamestown, NY.

- Walnut, Epoxy resin, stones, tumbled brick
- 17" T x 54" W x 15" D

ORIGINS COFFEE TABLE

A road trip to North Central PA in search of the headwaters of the Allegheny River inspired this flowing river table. The subtle sheen and understated river of stones evoke the origins of this great river. All cut from the same walnut slab, the free form legs mirror the natural shape of the top.

- Walnut, Epoxy resin, stones
- 18" T x 72" W x 27" D
- Natural Walnut Base
- One-of-a-kind, please inquire about availability

OAK CREEK CANYON TABLE

A modern take on the river table theme, this square edge table uses the live edges of this exotic wood to portray the canyon walls along Oak Creek near Sedona, AZ. The stones, collected during a road trip to the canyonlands appear to levitate in their clear Epoxy "river".

- Austrian Poplar, Epoxy resin, sandstone
- 18" T x 28" W x 26" D
- Natural cherry base

SAND BAR

Entertain in style! Sandhill Designs began in rural Wisconsin and this piece is a tribute to our old home state. The state is known for taverns, of course, but the Wisconsin River is famous for its sand bars. Here you get the best of both. The back side is open shelving, with custom options for the lucky owner of this home bar.

- Walnut, Epoxy resin, stone, sand
- 41" T x 72" W x 20" D
- Natural Cherry base
- Hidden casters...rolls with ease!
